

December Near

Perhaps tomorrow it will snow
The earth needs the moisture for it to grow
It's been almost a year since we let you go,
Gavin your mother and I miss you so.

I long to see you; to touch your hand
To see just how you've become a man.
To tell you of our joy's and sorrows
To hold you; to love you through tomorrow.

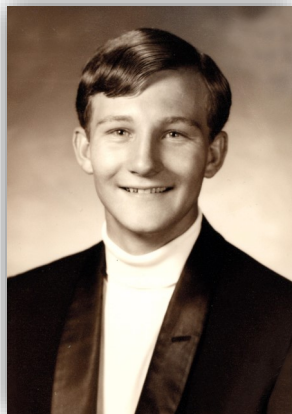

I miss not having you here to talk to,
To play the cowboy games and walk through
The heavens as we see them here.
Oh! Son I just need you near.

Perhaps tomorrow it will snow
Decembers coming on to fast I'm told
But for your mother and I; December will always be cold
To cold for a stone to be placed on the ground,
To cold for memories to come around....
